

Miller Canning

Rustic luxury defines miller's point of view. Her passion for natural gemstones remaining as close to how they were found in the earth shows in her jewelry. When faced with choosing a stone that is hand faceted and not treated or a highly faceted machine designed stone, Miller will instinctively choose hand faceted.

When asked why she chooses hand faceted stones, Miller talks about the limited resources in the earth she responds, " Why waste the earth's stones with machine drilling because fashion dictates, or a group of people say one stone is more valuable than another!"

Each piece is created to show the stones best qualities and assets. Because each stone is carefully chosen, there are rarely multiple pieces made.

For jewelry enthusiasts seeking one-of-a-kind pieces, Miller Canning Jewelry offers bespoke services in addition to her current designs.

